Note : Question Nos. 2 to 6 are based on the following passage :

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions given below it :

One day when Newton was fifty years old and had been hard at work for more than twenty years studying a very difficult subject. He went out of his room leaving his little dog (Diamond) asleep before the fire. On the table lay a heap of paper containing all the facts which Newton had found out during the twenty years. When his master was gone, little Diamond rose up, jumped upon the table and overthrew the lighted candle. The paper at once caught fire and were all burnt.

Newton opened the door and saw that the labour of twenty years was reduced to a heap of ashes. There stood little Diamond who had done all the mischief. Almost any other man would have punished the dog, but Newton patted him on head as kindly as usual, although grief was at his heart. He only said, "O! Diamond!" "You little know of the mischief you have done."

Q.16 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions given below it :

“Then I can’t stop her from joining the scholars’ panel. She has come here on her own merit. I will allow her to sit on the panel until you come up with a convincing example,” said the king.

People were still doubtful about girl’s worthiness. But as the discussion progressed all doubts vanished.

Days passed. The girl took part in several discussions, asked many questions and answered many others. Other scholars were astonished by her brilliance.

When the final draft of the book was compiled, many hymns which were composed by the girl were included.

Nobody knows for sure what happened to the girl thereafter.

Some say, she constructed a book of her own hymns. Some say, she opened an academy for girls. Different people, different stories. But everybody agrees that “the girl who asked why” became the first female scholar.
