5 Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow :

In a small village lived a milkmaid who sold the milk that she got from her cows. She would carry the milk in a big mud pitcher. One day as she was walking with the big pitcher full of milk on her head, she started to imagine all the things she wished to do with the money she would earn from selling the milk.

I have such a small farm now with only a few cows! I want lots of money to buy a bigger farm! From the money I make from this milk, I will buy a hundred chickens to rear in my backyard. They will cost me less money than full-grown hens. I'll feed them well and when they are fully grown, I'll sell them at a good price. This will give me more money.

As she walked on, she continued, when I get a lot of money after selling those full-grown hens, I will buy several young lambs and feed them with the green succulent grass in the ground next to my home till they grow really fat. When they grow big and fat, I will collect wool from them and sell it at an excellent price ! The ewes will give birth to more lambs and there will be even more wool to collect !

Still dreaming, she said to herself, with this money I can buy more sheep, chickens and a few more cows. I will then get more milk and more wool to sell. Selling milk and wool in large quantities will give me more money and I can have a really big farm.....

So deeply immersed was she in her dreams for the future, that her steps wobbled. But she paid no heed to it. Lo! Suddenly she tripped and fell down. The mud pitcher broke into many pieces and all the milk was spilt. Completely traumatized the milkmaid sat on the ground and cried. All her dreams had been shattered.

- (a) What was the milkmaid carrying ? What was she thinking about as she was walking ? 2
- (b) How did she think she can get more money ? 2
- (c) What did she think she would do with the ewes ? 2
- (d) Why was the milk-maid traumatized ? 2

6 Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow :

A species whose population is so small that it is under the threat of becoming extinct is called an endangered species. There are several animals in Asia that are under the danger of being wiped out completely from the face of the earth. Such a situation arises when human activities destroy their habitats and disrupt their food chains. Some animals are even killed for their skin, other body parts. Some such species are : the birdwing butterfly, found in the forests of Pacific; the giant panda found in bamboo forests located in the mountains of South-Western China; the Indian rhinoceros, found in India and Nepal; the orang-utan, found in the forests of Borneo, and Sumatra; the Asian elephant, found in countries of South-East Asia; and the Asian tiger, found in India, Bangladesh, Sumatra, China and the Russian Far East.

Five species of Asian tigers that can still be found are (i) The Royal Bengal tiger (ii) the Indo-Chinese tiger (iii) the Siberian tiger (iv) the South China tiger and (v) the Sumatran tiger. The status of existence of these species is declared to be critically endangered. There were three more species of Asian tigers that are now extinct. They are the Caspian tiger, the Javan tiger and the Bali tiger.

Tigers are being killed for their skin, bone and other body parts. The bones of tigers are used to make traditional Asian medicine for the treatment of diseases like rheumatism, joint and back pain, paralysis and leprosy. For many reading has many benefits that continues to enhance their lives. Their lives have remarkably improved in some of the following ways : mentally, spiritually. Also, if you develop a habit of reading you will become more confident and self assured in abilities to comprehend and understand all types of information. Let's further examine more benefits of reading.

One of the other main benefits of reading is that it exercises your mind. Your mind begins to bend and flex mentally, it says loose so that you can flow easily through the course of the day. Such regular routine ensures that the reading muscle stays in good shape as well as the mind. Just like physical exercise, there has to be a determination to make reading a part of your life. If you understand the many benefits of reading, you will have no trouble adopting a regular habit of reading.

Reading has other benefits for the regular reader which is the ability to focus. When the mind is trained and channelled, it begins to pay attention more thoroughly. For example, when you are faced with some of life's difficult and challenging assignments, you will have the ability to stay calm and objectively look at the problem, circumstances or at the required task. If you continue to read, you continue to stay focussed.

Books are by far the most lasting products of human efforts. Temples crumble into ruin, pictures and states decay, but books survive. Time is of no account with great thoughts which are as fresh today as when they first passed through their authors' minds ages ago. What was then thought and said still speaks to us as ever from the printed page. The only effect of time has been to sift and winnow out the bad product; for nothing in literature can long survive but what is really good. Books introduce us into the best society; they bring us into the presence of the greatest minds that have lived. We hear what they said; we see them as if they were really alive, we sympathize with them, enjoy with them, grieve with them; their experience becomes ours; and we feel as if we were actors with them in the scenes which they describe. Books are known to be a man's best friend. They are a powerhouse of knowledge and wisdom. It is rightly said, "There is no friend as loyal as a book." Books have so much to give us and do not ask anything in return. A good book can uplift our mood instantly and leave a deep impact on us. It is thus highly recommended to read different kinds of books to grow wiser.
