When the king approached, the hermit dug the ground in front of his hut. Seeing the king, he greeted him and went with digging. The hermit was frail and weak, and each time he stuck his spade through the ground and turned little earth, he breathe heavily. The king went up to him and said, "I have come to you, wise hermit, to ask you three questions : How may I learn to do the right thing at the right time? Who is the people I most need, and to whom would I therefore pay more attention than to the rest? And what affairs are most important and need my first attention?" The hermit listened to the king, but answered nothing. He just spat on his hand and recommenced to dig.
